BOOK NOTICES

Outline of the Epistle to the Romans, by J. W. H. Nichols.

This, as its title indicates, is a brief outline study of this great epistle. Those who are looking for a help of this kind will be pleased with this. It is spiritual and thoroughly evangelical.

54 pages. 7x5 inches. Bible Truth Depot, New York. 20 cents. P. B. F.

Doctor Barnardo: Physician, Pioneer, Prophet, by J. Wesley Bready, Ph.D., M.A.

Of Dr. Barnardo, Friend of the Children, who ceased from his earthly labors some twenty-five years ago, the London Times then declared, "He may justly be ranked among the greatest public benefactors whom England has in recent times numbered among her citizens." Though he died at sixty years of age, his numerous children's homes had sheltered and offered training and Christian nurture to 60,000 waifs and destitute children. The whole story, covering ancestry, the journey of the Dublin youth to London for training as a medical missionary, the clear call to a ministry for the waifs of London's East End, beginnings, expansions, persecutions, financial methods—indeed, a full and satisfying story is here, and the heart of the reader will burn within him as the pages are turned.

271 pages. 8½x5½ inches. Fleming H. Revell Company, Chicago and New York. $2.50. W. M. R.

The Jew and His Destiny, by E. H. Moseley.

Much has been written upon this subject, but in this small brochure the writer has endeavored to present in the most simple and concise manner the Bible prophecies concerning Israel and their fulfillment, particularly in the present day. It will especially be appreciated by those who are anxious to get the very latest views upon the resettlement of Palestine and the movement towards reorganization of the Jewish people as a nation.

71 pages. 8x5½ inches. The author, 409 E. Pecan Street, Gainesville, Tex. 35 cents. C. H. B.

God's Truth versus Man's Theories, by J. H. Gauss, D.D.

Christians who would be approved workmen for God need rightly divide the errors of Satan as well as the Word of Truth, for the Devil has closely copied (with vital omissions and subtle alterations) the inspired Bible, so that many an uninstructed reader is entangled in false beliefs. This valuable handbook expounds in the light of Scripture fourteen prevalent religiousisms, including Christian Science, Judaism, Unity, Millennial Dawn, Swedenborgianism, and in fact every known cult of large following. As dean of Brookes Bible Institute in St. Louis, the author is a skilled and reverent teacher, and shows whatever of truth the error enshrines, how we can wisely approach its devotee, what scripture passages (often quoted in full) may be helpfully used, and the questions and arguments that have carried conviction in known cases. His spirit and his clarity are both winning, and this book should be carefully studied to the glory of God.

286 pages. 7½x5 inches. Faithful Words Publishing Co., St. Louis, Mo. $1.50. H. E. S.

Foundations for Human Engineering, by Charles R. Gow.

For professor of Humanics the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has been fortunate to secure one of America's leading construction engineers, still engaged in active business. His lectures here reproduced are invaluable for any student aiming at a business career. We wish every boy could read them, and girls as well. He shows how to chart our strong and weak points, and to gauge fellow workers and all with whom we deal with equal care. Each chapter is immensely interesting, the more so because of illustrations from actual business experience. A few titles are: The Retort Courteous; He Who Talks Too Much; Eyes That See Not; That Self-Starter, Initiative; Personality; The Integrated Whole; Loyalty Up and Loyalty Down.

Questions put by the students with the author's answers make up the final chapter of this remarkably instructive little volume, and another successful man who founded the course introduces it with his own address on Knowledge Plus Wisdom.

226 pages. 8x5 inches. Macmillan Company, New York. $1.00. H. E. S.
